To Mary Twining the closing of the ill-starred little railroad was tragely. The Colorado and Eastern, for all her interest in it and her faith in Eight, nover prospered. The engine was the lirst ever used in the Colorado mountains. If the financiers hadn't rowed about the Colorado and Eastern entrance to the Denver union station, Mary Twining's dream might have come true. But Elyria, the engine, and Mary Twining have grown old in the waiting and now Mary knows the waiting was in yain.
